Aim and objectives:

The National Service Scheme (NSS) Unit of Patharkandi College celebrated NSS Day on September 24, 2021. The National Service Scheme (NSS), a programme for community service, is managed by the Ministry of Youth Affairs and Sports. Every year on September 24, India observes National Service Day. In 1969, the 100th year of Mahatma Gandhi's birth, 40,000 students from 37 universities took part in the National Service Scheme. Universities, colleges, and even higher secondary schools in the nation are now a part of its expansion.

The Indian government's Ministry of Youth Affairs & Sports is in charge of running the central sector programme known as the National Service Scheme (NSS). It makes possible for 11th and 12th-grade students in Indian colleges and universities, as well as graduate and post-graduate students, to take part in a range of government-led community service projects and initiatives. Through this initiative, the younger generation will receive actual experience volunteering in the community. The college unit marked the day appropriately in light of these circumstances. The departmental lecturers delivered a lecture that day and advised the students to pay closer attention when performing community service without interfering with their academic pursuits. Since N.S.S.'s motto is "Not Me But You," Dr. Monjurul Hoque, the college's principal, recommended the students to include community service into their daily lives. Additionally, he counseled us to engage in social activities that benefit society as a whole as human beings. About 250 students, including teaching and non-teaching staff, participated in this programme. Dr. Md. Imam Uddin Ansari, programme officer for the N.S.S. Unit at Patharkandi College, gave a vote of thanks to close the session.
