Aim and objectives:

NSS Day was held on September 24, 2017, by the Patharkandi College National Service Scheme (NSS) Unit. The Ministry of Youth Affairs and Sports runs the National Service Scheme (NSS), a public service initiative. On September 24th of each year, India celebrates NSS Day. In 1969, the 100th year of Mahatma Gandhi's birth, 37 universities and 40,000 students participated in the National Service Scheme. The country's Universities, Colleges, and even Higher Secondary Schools are now included in its expansion.

The Ministry of Youth Affairs & Sports of the Indian government administers the National Service Scheme (NSS), a central sector programme. It enables Indian college and university students in their 11th and 12th classes, as well as graduate and post-graduate students, to participate in a variety of government-led community service activities and programmes. Young generation will gain practical experience performing community service through this programme. Keeping these facts, the college unit observed the day in befitting manner. The teachers from the departments gave a lecture on the day and instructed the students to be more attentive in community service without hampering their academic activities. Dr. Monjurul Hoque, Principal of the college advised the students community to implement the community service to their whole life as because the motto of N.S.S is "Not Me But You". He also advised that as a human being we must involve in those social activities which are beneficial for the people in general. In this programme, About 250 students including teaching, Non-teaching staffs participated. The programme was concluded with vote of thanks by Dr. Md. Imam Uddin Ansari, Programme officer, N.S.S Unit, Patharkandi College.
